S I R,

TO shelter the unprotected—to encourage Genius—to patronize Merit; are Duties, which the Sense of Mankind, in all Ages, has exacted from PRINCES. Such a Disposition has been always a conspicuous Trait in your HIGHNESS'S Character, and is contemplated by Englishmen, as the certain pledge of that Nobility of Soul, which can never fail to command the Esteem and Admiration of the World.

THE following little Work, which I have the distinguished Honor of inscribing to your ROYAL HIGHNESS, has no other Claim to Public Notice, than that of diversifying the Mode and

DEDICATION.

and extending the Limits, of an innocent, and perhaps instructive Amusement.

YOUR PRINCELY Condescension, in permitting the DRAUGHT GUIDE to be ushered into the World under the Auspices of your illustrious Name, is such an Instance of generous Attention to humble Merit, as at once, gratifies the liberal Feelings of an English Public, and confers an Honor on the Author, which he will ever recollect with Pride, and Esteem with Gratitude.

I have the Honor to be,
With the most profound Respect,
SIR,

YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS'S

much obliged, most obedient,
and very humble Servant,

JOSHUA STURGES.

TO ascertain distinctly consequences in their causes—to calculate with promptitude the result of intricate variety—to elude by vigilant caution the snares of stratagem; are lessons, which the Game of Draughts strongly inculcate, and uniformly explain. While, thus, the Game on one hand, affords the means of intellectual improvement; on the other, it banishes every temptation to moral depravity. It guards simplicity from the lures of deceit, and prevents cunning from preying on credulity: for where superior skill alone commands success, the ignorant are not mad enough, to hazard their fortune or their happiness, in a contest, where loss is certain, and gain impossible. Considering the Game as an amusement, it cannot be denied that it tends to improve those faculties of the mind, which are eminently useful in every condition of life; and may therefore be made the School of Wisdom, but cannot, like the Gaming-Table of chance, become the nursery of vice.

These observations on the character of the Draughts, are addressed to the fastidious Critic, who disrelishes, without distinction, every description of play; and doubts the propriety of publishing any Book whatever, on the subject of Gaming.

There is, however, another, and that too a numerous class of readers, who, readily acknowledging the innocent nature of the undertaking, will be only solicitous to inquire into the merits of its execution.

On

On this head, though the Author cannot boast of perfection, he can safely affirm, that every aid has been resorted to, which long experience, intense study, and the assistance of the most celebrated players could suggest, to render it as perfect as possible.*

Had Mr. Payne's Book been formed on a plan, sufficiently enlarged, to enable the student to acquire a competent share of critical skill in the science, this work would probably never have made its appearance. The fact, however, is, that whoever consults that Book, will find it much too general to guide the judgment through that vast complexity of movements common to the Game, or to assist in extricating the Player from those embarrassing difficulties, in which, particular situations, must frequently involve him.

Several of that Author's Games required correction, and are here, so far as they go, displayed in their amended state, together with the addition of numerous ramifications, to diversify the positions, vary the scale, and enlarge the plan.

What is here advanced, is not intended to detract from the merits of a predecessor. Something like an apology seemed to be required, for the publication of a second Book on the Game of Draughts, and truth supplied the Author with no other, than what is here offered to a liberal and candid Public.

* The gentlemen to whose great abilities and friendship, the Author has been so particularly indebted, are Mr. Miller, Mr. Batrich, Captain Burney, Mr. Israel Cohen, Mr. Beaumont, Mr. Holman, Mr. Long, and Mr. Somes. The high reputation these gentlemen have acquired in the scientific knowledge of DRAUGHTS, can receive no addition whatever from panegyric.

But, surely, when it is considered that knowledge is the result of progressive improvement, it can be no proof of excessive self-complacency, to suppose that we have advanced a little nearer perfection than those who have long gone before us in the study of the same art.

At any rate, there is one original and important advantage, which the following work possesses over that of Mr. Payne's; it contains, at least, five hundred more examples than his, embracing the most critical situations which the Game can produce, and arranged in so clear a manner, as to be intelligible to any learner, however unskilled in the play.

In short, the Author entertains a hope, that the numerous improvements he has introduced, will, in the estimation of judges, raise the Game of Draughts in rank and consideration equal to that of Chess; and that whatever fate his Book may experience from the surly critic, the liberal student will at least allow, that he has increased the number of his enjoyments, by enlarging the circle of innocent and useful amusement.

LAWS FOR THE GAME OF DRAUGHTS.

1st. The first move of each Game to be taken by both players alternately, whether the Game is won or drawn.

2d. Pointing over the Board with your finger, or any other action which can interrupt your adversary's full view of the Men, is not tolerated.

3d. The Men may be properly placed on the Squares in any part of the Game; but after they are so placed, if you touch a Man you must play him in one direction or other; if, however you move your Man so far as to be in any part visibly over the Angle which divides the Squares you are playing from and to, you must finish your move so begun.

4th. In the case of your standing the Huff, it is optional with your adversary to take your Man, or oblige you to take that of his, which you omitted by the Huff.

5th. If when it is your turn to play, you delay your move above three minutes, your adversary may call upon you to play, and after being so called upon, you are allowed five minutes more to move, and in default of moving in that time you lose the Game.

6th. While a Game is pending, you cannot leave the room without your adversary's consent, and in such case, a third person chosen by him shall decide on the time to be allowed for your absence—and if judged necessary he is to accompany you.

7th. In giving an inferior player the Draws, the Game must be played to a more advanced state, than is exemplified in the Book—When in such a Game the situations become so equal that no advantage can be taken, he who gives the Draws, shall not occasion any unnecessary delay by moving the same Men forwards and backwards in useless manœuvring, but shall force his adversary out of his strong position, or in failure thereof to lose the Game.

P. S. In playing the losing Game, your adversary can oblige you to take the greatest number of Men he has to lose.

CRITICAL REMARKS ON THE GAME.

The Learner would do well to select a set of Games for practice, and to make himself completely acquainted with their respective Variations. With regard to such Games, as he may be desirous of reversing by playing the opposite side, he is to observe the following Directions, viz. —Let him write down whatever figures are required to make the number played from and played to exactly 33; and this can be done, without any reference to the Draught-Board. For instance, in the annexed example, the Game is opened by moving 11 to 15; and as 11 and 22 make 33; and 15 and 18, make 33 also; write down 22, 18, which in reversing the Game, will be therefore your first move. Proceed in the same manner, with every succeeding move, and the Game is then entirely reversed.	Example.	Same

CRITICAL REMARKS ON THE GAME.

In particular situations, to have the Move on your side, is a decisive advantage over even a skilful adversary. This is a matter little understood by ordinary players, but its importance will fully appear by studying the critical situations. To have the Move, signifies, your occupying that position on the Board which will eventually enable you to force your adversary into a confined situation, and which at the end of the Game, secures to yourself the last Move. It must, however, be observed, that where your Men are in a confined state, the Move is not only of no use to you, but, for that very reason, may occasion the loss of the Game. To know in any particular situation whether you have the Move of your adversary, you must number the Men and the Squares, and if the Men are even and the Squares odd, or the Squares even and the Men odd, you have the Move. With even Men and even Squares, or odd Men and odd Squares, you have not the Move.—This rule will be best explained by an example. Look, then, at the 8th critical situation, where the Whites play first—there the adverse Men are even, two to two; but the White Squares, being five in number, are odd—The Squares may be thus reckoned—from 26 a White King, to 28 a Black King, are three, viz. 31, 27, and 24—The White Squares between 32, a White Man, and 19, a Black Man, are two, viz. 27 and 23—You may reckon more ways than one, but reckon which way you will, the Squares will still be found odd; and therefore, the Whites so situated, have the Move. When you have not the Move, you must endeavour to procure it by giving Man for Man, a mode of Play, fully and successfully exemplified, in this Work.

It is a mistaken notion, founded in misconception, that any advantage is derived from playing first. It is admitted, that he who plays first, has not the Move, the Men and Squares being then both even; but, though he who plays second, has the Move, it can be of no service to him in that stage of the Game. The truth is, that when the Combatants continue giving Man for Man, the Move will alternately belong to the one and the other. The first Player, will have it at odd Men, at 11, 9, 7, 5, 3, and 1; the second Player, will have it at even Men, at 12, 10, 8, 6, 4, and 2; and therefore some error must be committed on one side or the other, before the Move can be forced out of that direction.

There is another mode, which will in less time than reckoning the Squares, enable you to see who has the Move. For instance, if you wish to know, whether any one Man of yours, has the Move of any one Man of your adversary's, cast your Eye on the Situations of both, and if you find a Black Square on the right Angle, under his Man, you have the Move.—For example, you are to play first, and your White Man is 30, when your Adversary's Black Man is 3—In this Situation, you will find the right Angle in a Black Square between 31 and 32, immediately under 3, and therefore you have the Move. This Rule will apply to any number of Men, and holds true in all cases without exception.

DIRECTIONS FOR PLAYING.

1st. The Draught-Table must be placed with an upper white Square towards the right hand; then number the White Squares, from 1 to 32.—See Frontispiece.

2d. The Black Pieces, are placed upon the first twelve Squares, in all the following Games.

3d. The Letters B. and W. stand for Black and White.—Va. for Variation.—wn. for Win, and Draw is printed at full length.

4th. The Figures placed immediately on the right of Va. signify the Number of the Variation in each Game.

5th. The Figures on the left Side of each Column, denote the Squares you play from.—Those on the Right, the Squares you play to.

6th. The whole of Mr. Payne's 50 Games are contained in the first Columns only, from which all the other Columns branch by Variations. The Stars point out the particular Moves which occasion the loss of the Game, and are intentionally introduced for the Instruction of the Learner.

The 12th Move in the first Column of Game 1, occasions the Whites losing; but, by the 12th Move, in the first Column of Game 2, they make it a Draw. When any Line leads to a Dagger, the Move from whence it branches, is an Error of Mr. Payne, which the Move pointed out by the Figures opposite the Dagger, is designed to correct.

7th. The Lines which intersect the Columns, shew where each Variation commences, but the Figures from which the Line directly branches, are not included in the branching Variation: they are only connected with those immediately above them. I shall trace some of the Variations in Game 1, and which, by a little practice on the Board, will be a perfect Guide to all the rest.

It is proper, before you proceed to the Variations, to play Game 1 out; then you begin the same again by the Blacks playing from 11 to 15, and the Line then leads the Whites to play from 24 to 20 at the top of the last Column, where Va. 1 begins, and near the bottom of which, it ends in a Draw. In Va. 2, you begin and proceed as before, until the Whites play from 24 to 17 in the 11th Move of the last Column, when the Line leads the Blacks to play from 9 to 13 at Va. 2, in the fifth Column, at the Bottom of which the Game ends. In Va. 3, you proceed in the same manner, until in the 6th Move of Va. 2, in the fifth Column, the Whites play from 14 to 10, when the Line leads the Blacks to play from 12 to 19 at Va. 3 in the last Column, at the Bottom of which, the Game ends. In tracing Va. 4, you proceed down the first Column to the 4th Move, where the Whites play from 25 to 18, when the Line leads the Blacks to play from 12 to 16 in Va. 4, at the Top of the third Column, near the Bottom of which, the Game ends. In Va. 5, you proceed as in the last, until in the 14th Move of Va. 4, in the third Column, the Whites play from 26 to 17, when the Line leads the Blacks to play from 9 to 14 in Va. 5, at the Top of the fifth Column, down which, near half way, the Game ends in a Draw.

By attending to these Directions, the Learner will with Ease be able to trace the beginning, and progress of each Variation.
